Office Hours: Wed. 9:30-11:30am

This seminar provides an overview of the field of comparative politics targeted towards Ph.D. students in the Government department. This course introduces students to classic works as well as recent contributions that build upon those works. Readings draw from leading theoretical approaches—including structural, institutional, rational choice, and cultural perspectives—and cover a broad range of substantive topics, such as regime types, democratization, states and civil society, political economy, violence, and political participation and representation. Students from other programs may register only with the permission of the instructors. There are no prerequisites for the course.

The reading load for this course varies by week, but averages six to seven articles/chapters or approximately three hundred pages per week. Assigned readings are marked with an asterisk (*); we have listed additional background reading to identify important works that we will not be able to cover during our course. Students are expected to have done all of the required assigned readings before each class.

The following books are available for purchase at the Cornell bookstore. Copies are also available at the Uris Library reserve desk.

- 1. Charles Tilly. Coercion, Capital, and European States. Oxford: Basil Blackwell.
- 2. Douglass C. North. Institutions, Institutional Change, and Economic Performance. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- 3. Steven Levitsky and Lucan Way. Competitive Authoritarianism: Hybrid Regimes after the Cold War. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- 4. Susan C. Stokes, Thad Dunning, Marcelo Nazareno, and Valeria Brusco. Brokers, Voters, and Clientelism: The Puzzle of Distributive Politics. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- 5. Sidney Tarrow. Power in Movement: Social Movements and Contentious Politics. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- 6. Steven Wilkinson. Votes and Violence: Electoral Competition and Ethnic Riots in India. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- 7. Elisabeth Wood. Insurgent Collective Action and Civil War in El Salvador. New York: Cambridge University Press.

- 8. Ben W. Ansell and David J. Samuels. Inequality and Democratization: An Elite-Competition Approach. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- 9. Dan Slater. Ordering Power: Contentious Politics and Authoritarian Leviathans in Southeast Asia. New York: Cambridge University Press.

Remaining readings are drawn from a mix of books and journal articles. The assigned readings are available online from one of two sources:

- Journal articles are available online via the Cornell library catalogue, which may be accessed at http://library.cornell.edu/. It is usually easiest to search the catalogue by the journal title. We have included what we believe are permanent links to each reading below, but these will only work from on a computer linked to campus (and we can make no guarantee that these particular links remain active after August 2015).
- Chapters and other selections are available at the Blackboard course site, which may be accessed at http://blackboard.cornell.edu. The course ID is 7090_2015FA. Readings are found under the Course Readings tab on the left-hand navigation panel.

There are three requirements for this course:

- 1. Active and thoughtful class participation. All students are expected to participate actively and regularly in discussions. In addition, two times during the semester, students will serve as discussion leaders. Discussion leaders will write a short, two-page critical review of the weekly readings and circulate it in advance to other members of the class in order to identify key issues for classroom discussion.
- 2. Critical response essays. Throughout the course of the semester, each student is responsible for writing five (5) short response papers that integrate and critically evaluate each week's required readings. These can be done for any week except for weeks in which the student is the discussion leader.
- 3. Final paper. A 15-20 page paper that provides an overview and critical assessment of "the state of the literature" for one week's readings. Due December 10.

We will not grant incompletes in this class except as a consequence of extraordinary personal circumstances. Late work will be penalized.
